Island Life

Entry Point

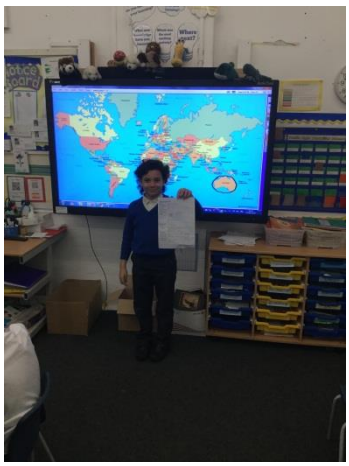
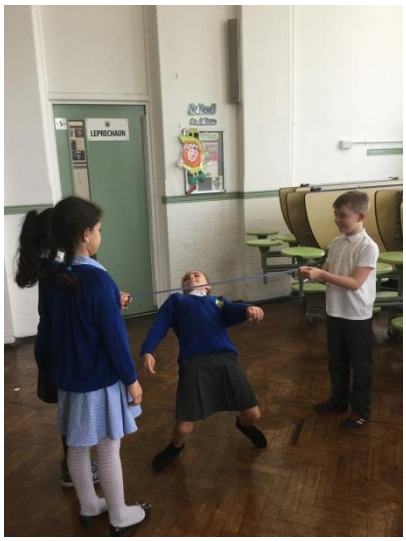
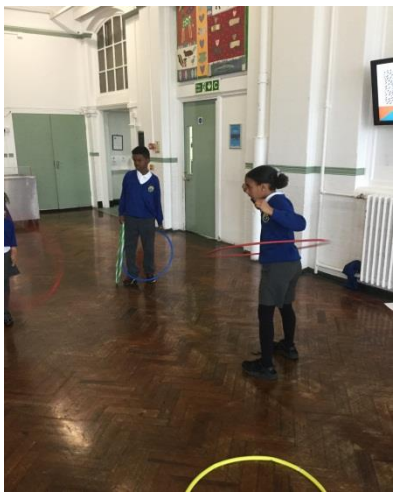
During our entry point, we first showed off our homework projects, where students wrote about an island of their choice.

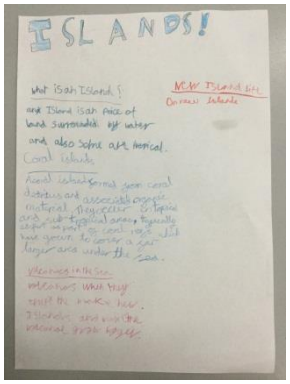


We then took part in a carousel of fun tropical island themed activities. These ranged from Island patterns where we replicated them on our own; to the chance to play limbo and see how low we could go! We had to try to hula until we dropped to see who could go the longest. We also had a chance to learn the Haka and various dances from Island cultures.





The children then researched islands and made a poster sharing all the information they had gathered:



We then went on to discover what we needed to survive if we were stranded on an island. The children then created their own survival guides:
