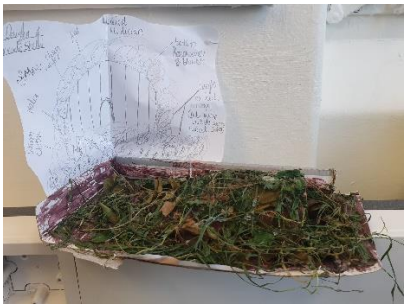
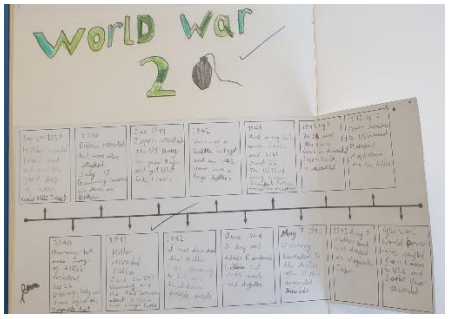
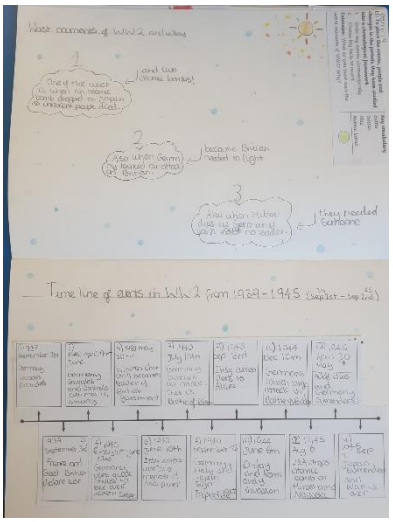
I hope everyone has had a lovely half term break! Hippogriff have had such a wonderful start to the second part of the Autumn term!

For our IPC topic of the Battle of Britain WWII, over the half term holidays the children had to design and create their own versions of a WWII Anderson Shelter. The children created some amazing models that were extremely detailed.







In class we have been researching the war and exploring important dates and creating timelines based around these. The children also looked at the Allies and Axis countries – who they were and how this looked from a global perspective.
